Date: November 5, 2020 | Time: 12:00 pm – 1:00 pm

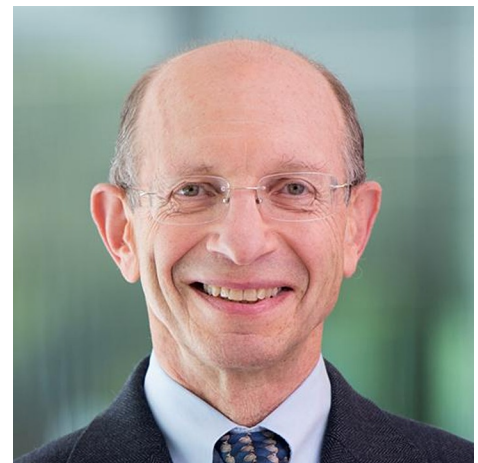

About this Event

The AMP Leadership Series is an opportunity to get to know senior management from the UC community on a more personal level. There will be a presentation and time for Q&A. This event is open to AMP members.

About Our Speaker

Dr. Dan Lowenstein is the Robert B. and Ellinor Aird Professor and vice chair in the Department of Neurology at UC San Francisco. He was named to the post of executive vice chancellor and provost effective Feb. 1, 2015.

Lowenstein has played an active role at UCSF as an advocate of cultural diversity and civil rights. In recognition of his leadership at UCSF in these areas, he received the 1998 Black Student Health Association's Faculty Award, the 1998 UCSF Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Award, the 2006 Holly Smith Award for Exceptional Service to the UCSF School of Medicine, and the 2009 UCSF Chancellor's Award for Public Service.

In 2017, Lowenstein was elected to the National Academy of Medicine, recognizing his outstanding professional achievement and commitment to service in the medical sciences and health care.
